One-day-conference

When: Thursday, 24th April 2014
10am-3pm

Where: Goldsmiths, University of London
New Cross, London, SE14 6NW
New Academic Building (NAB), LG01

As schools are getting ready for implementing of the New National Curriculum, school leaders and teachers are looking for engaging and effective ways to plan the provision of Modern Languages.

During this one-day conference we will focus on the practice of CLIL, creativity, storytelling and embedded language teaching for both Primary and Secondary. Sessions include:

- Embedding Modern Languages in the New Curriculum
- Cross-curricular Modern Languages Teaching
- CLIL and Multilingual Digital Storytelling
- Designing CLIL-The Gran Canaria Model
- Language Learning Matters: The Southwark-Gran Canaria collaboration
- Supporting the delivery of MFL with international links

The conference is funded by the LLM European Regio project and there is no fee for attending. However, places are limited so you are advised to apply early and register by 10th of April. To register, please email your name and institution to Laurence Connor, l.connor@gold.ac.uk, with 'Registration for Language Learning Matters' in the subject line of your email.

Lunch will be provided
